

Biography

Rachel Wingfield is Senior Lecturer on the MA Design for Textile Futures (School of Fashion & Textiles, Central Saint Martins) and Research Fellow in Textile Futures Research Group (University of the Arts London), as well as Co-Director of Loop.pH Ltd.

Loop.pH is a London based studio that aims to bridge the gap between design and the natural sciences. They specialise in the conception and fabrication of environmentally responsive textiles for the built environment.

Rachel belongs to an emerging generation of designer's redefining conventions of how, why and with what things are made. Emphasis is placed on learning from both traditional craft based practices alongside the cutting edge of scientific and technological discovery.